RAVAGES OF THE STORM.

The Damage it Did In and About the

The Damage it Did in and About the City.

Monday rain began to fall and continued all day. As the day advanced the wind increased in force and when night came on it was blowing pretty lively, and continued to blow until about 3 o'clock yesterday morning, when it increased its force and blew a regular gale. Limbs were torn from trees and were scattered in every direction, fences were blown down, trees uprooted, telephoe and telegraph poles were blown down, and upon the streets the electric lights were turned off to prevent pedestrians who mgint be out in the streets from coming in contact with live wires.

On High street quite a number were lying across the sidewalk, and several who were out early were thrown down. A streak of copper was torn out the new Catholic Church steeple, from the bottom to the top, and was thrown more than a block away.

A house in Cottage Place, belonging to Mr. Balley, that was ready to be plastered, was blown to the ground.

An office belonging to the Land Company at Pinner's Point was blown over and was wrecked.

The tide made over Cook's Wharf and came into High street. It was so high that the ferry steamer "Norfolk County" came near hanging in the ferry piles in Norfolk, and had to make trips at intervals only.

On Crawford street, near South, the tide was several feet deep. The fish market and the lower end of the stores in Seaboard block, except Barlow's, were well under water.

The tide was so high between Portsmouth and the Power House of the Portsmouth Street railway that the cars could not get out until 9:30 o'clock. A portion of the smolestack at the Portsmouth Gas Company Works was blown down.

A colored man in trying to cross from Clifford street to South Portsmouth got

A portion of the smokestack at the Portsmouth Gas Company Works was blown down.

A colored man in trying to cross from Clifford street to South Portsmouth got into an open sewer on the corner and went over his head in water.

Mr. Samuel P. Oast showed a charitible act by passing persons backward and forward from Clifford street to Wythe street in his carts, the water being too deep for people to pass dryforted. His kindly act was greatly appreciated, especially by those who went that way to get to the Navy Yard.

Purt of the tin of the Equipment storehouse of the Sentoard Air Line shops was torn off by the wind yesterday morning.

A portion of the shed in front of the market house on South street was blown off and hurled some distance down the street.

THREE MORE ROBBERIES.

THREE MORE ROBBERIES.

This Makes Five Since Saturday Night Within Three Squares of the Police Station.

Some time during Monday night some one entered the hardware store of Mr. N. F. Richardson and carried off a few articles of but little value, among them being some chisels and other small tools.

Later they entered the store of Mr. C. H. Coles, on the corner of Middle and County streets, where they fitted themselves to a suit of clothes, there being two of them. They, then took a shirt apiece, an overcoat and then took down a number of boxes of shoes, opened them and laid them one side until they fitted their feet, and then left, leaving the door open after them. Mr. Coles says that when he left the store that he barred the doors that were found open, and locked the main door. About 6 a. m. yesterday an officer came to his residence and told him that both doors of his store were open. He says he cannot see how the party could have gotten in the store unless they were locked in. He thinks that they were locked in the thinks that they were locked in the thinks that they were locked in a desk, took out $88 in money—$44 belonging to Mrs. Garrett and the other $44 belonging to a friend that was visiting her. They also took the visitor's gold spectacles, a gold watch and chain and a bank book. They then visited another part of the house, secured a gold watch and chain, belonging to Mrs. Garrett, and another belonging to Mrs. Garrett, and another belonging to Mrs. Garrett, and another belonging to her son, a gold hat pin, set with pearls, a life insurance policy and a number of articles, in all valued at near $400, was taken. Mrs. Garrett said that there was a pocketbook in the drawer belonging to her son with five $20 bills which they must have overlooked, or else became frightened when she came down stairs about 2 o'clock. They left the chisels and some other smaller tools that they had taken from Richardson's on the floor. The drawer was contents were taken away. The articles that were found on the floor were tu

ABOUT FOOTBALL.

The directors of the Port Norfolk rallroad held a meeting yesterday with the following members present: H. L. Maynard, president; Gustavus Ober, vice-president; A. J. Phillips secretary; John L. Watson, treasurer; Mr. Stein, of Baltimore, and T. J. Wool, of this city.

The president reported that the tracks and all rolling stock has been put in first-class schape, sufficient new cars purchased to enable the company to make a first-class schedule, and all machinery and overhead work had been gone over and put in first-class schedule, and all machinery and overhead work had been gone over and put in first-class schedule, and all machinery and overhead work had been gone over and put in first-class schedule, and all machinery and overhead work had been gone over and put in first-class shape. They had considered certain extensions to the road, and will also make arrangements for amusements during the next summer. Every department of the road was looked into and found to be in excellent condition. The meeting was most harmonious throughout.
